Further Testimony from Mr. Tilton.

SAN FRANCISCO, July [illegible]—The report of Tilton's [illegible] occupies four columns of [illegible] Out to-day. He gives the particulars of several acts charged in his first statement. Of the [illegible] in the library he says he saw Beecher while [illegible] Mrs Tilton on a lounge [illegible] his hand under her clothing and caressed [illegible] ankles and lower limbs. Afterwards she [illegible] finally confessed and said she had [illegible] Beecher. He declared he never said his [illegible] was pure as an angel, but for a long time [illegible] conceal her offenses [illegible] [illegible] the statement as true. She [illegible] could see nothing [illegible]

Outline of Mr. Beecher's Defense.

The Daily Graphic gives an outline of Beecher's [illegible] derived from parties who [illegible] thoroughly understand the situation. The [illegible] says the document will be a very powerful [illegible] and will make some confessions which will create as great surprise as did Tilton's famous presentation of his alleged personal [illegible]. Beecher will acknowledge that since the beginning of his ministry he has been beset by letters addressed to him from women expressing great personal admiration and of him as a man and minister. He will show that communications of this nature are constantly received by every noted man in the community, and that [illegible] is a special annoyance of clergymen, poets and actors to [illegible] these abnormal [illegible] After a general statement Mr. Beecher will [illegible] the case of Mrs. Tilton [illegible] it seems, conceived for him a most extravagant passion. Knowing the family from childhood, [illegible] married her to her husband and having been in terms of close relation with both, he was led by a strange infatuation to submit to her [illegible] and an intimacy was formed which, while [illegible] (not?) criminal was reprehensible, or at least put him in a position which made him seem to do great wrong to Tilton. He will confess that both he and Mrs Tilton were very emotional and given to exaggeration in sentiment, and that the correspondence between them was not what should have existed between a pastor and lady, and that he [illegible] wife of his friend. [illegible] peculiarity of the case was that Mrs. Tilton complained bitterly of her husband's self-sufficiency, want of kindness to her and possible infidelity, and she looked up to Mr. Beecher to give her that affection and sympathy which [illegible] failed to find at home. Beecher will acknowledge that he was tried with temptation that he [illegible] loved kindness and expressions [illegible] by [illegible] tenderness by Mrs. Tilton, and that he reciprocated them to a great extent, so much so that while not actually guilty of any wrong to Tilton he so far compromised himself and [illegible] the duty [illegible] to render [illegible] as it appeared to his mind the letters which he subsequently wrote to Mr. Moulton and [illegible] Mr Tilton humbling himself before [illegible] before God for his extravagant demonstrations of affection for the wife of his friend.

A FEARFUL PHILLIPPIC AGAINST ALECK STEPHENS

A Washington letter writer writes up the Hon. Alexander H. Stephens in the past tense, insisting that he has been dead for some time and is only suffered to circulate in a post mortem way for a while as a proof of the doctrine of immortality, demonstrating, as he does, that the mind may still exist without any body to speak of. Perhaps it is this fact of Aleck's sad demise that has moved his old friend Ben Hill to pronounce this touching eulogy upon him. It will compare favorably with anything of the kind in the language:

"And now let me take leave of Alexander Hamilton Stephens. I have known him long and studied him well. In my opinion he has inflicted upon the Southern people more injury than was ever inflicted upon any people by one civilian. For much of this injury a too charitable and easily deluded press and people are responsible. [illegible] what shall we liken him? We must not blaspheme the dead by hunting among them for his [illegible] We will not insult the living by seeking among them for his rival. We [illegible] the innocent unborn by supposing that among them [illegible] could ever have an imitator. WOMEN AND LAW

A religious journal takes occasion upon the quiet submission of the women of Wilkesbarre, Pa., to the law prohibiting praying on the sidewalk, to make the following sensible remarks:

"This respect [illegible] law is in harmony with Scriptural injunctions and with the spirit of prayer.

Much offense has been given by the refusal of women in several other cities to submit to the municipal regulations of this matter. They have suffered arrest and even imprisonment rather than to yield what they regard their right to pray where they please.

We who are jealous of our right to religious freedom must be very cautious how we abuse our rights when we have them. The right to pray does not involve the right to interfere with other people's right [illegible] the public highway. We have the right to preach the gospel, but we may not [illegible] the public parks for that purpose without the consent of the [illegible] [illegible] representing the people. A man who [illegible] in the corner [illegible] assemble a crowd may be and should be [illegible] [illegible] obedience [illegible] [illegible] twenty minutes. If he is selling quack medicine or razor strops he has probably made friends of the police and purchased immunity by a bribe [illegible] [illegible] meeting our [illegible] peace will [illegible] conclusion.

The women [illegible] state of things is [illegible] [illegible] their right to pray where they [illegible] prefer to be [illegible] martyrs of rather than to [illegible] principle. But [illegible] [illegible] prayer will be [illegible] [illegible] with those petitions that come from all hearts [illegible] [illegible] God.

[illegible] criticism [illegible] like that [illegible] tongues of [illegible] conversion of those who are now ready to seize upon any pretext for withholding their support."

General Sherman is occasionally given to indulge in a fine sardonic vein. The General recently said: "The Indian Bureau has fed the Indians all winter and the ponies are fat. So the savage warrior is in fine trim for the acquisition of fresh scalps and plunder. Next fall they will all be taken back and fed." This is one side of the picture, strongly painted. It would take an experienced Indian Agent, who has made a fortune by swindling the Government and its red skinned wards with even handed impartiality, to do justice to the other.

THE TILTON-BEECHER CASE

Mrs. Tilton's Story.

BROOKLYN, July [illegible]—Following is the formal statement of Mrs. Tilton in reply to her husband's charges of infidelity, which was submitted to the Investigating Committee this afternoon. She fully indorses all that Mr. Beecher has said and indignantly denies the charges and quotes her [illegible] husband to the character of the spotless Catharine Gaunt as a proof that in regard to Mr. Beecher she was [illegible] [illegible] never been untrue to her marriage vows.

[illegible] the sorrows of the last ten years [illegible] silently [illegible] [illegible] makes this imperative [illegible] called forth by the unfair statement of my husband, the latest of my life. Besides my thought of following the Master contradicts this act of my pen, and a sense of the perversion of my life's truth almost compels me now to stand aside till God himself delivers. Yet I see in this wanton act [illegible] call and privilege from which I shrink not. To reply in detail to the twenty two articles of arraignment I shall not attempt at present, yet if called upon to testify to each and all of them I shall not hesitate to do so. Suffice it for my purpose now that I reply to one or more of the most glaring charges. Touching the [illegible] of my husband's compulsory revelation, I solemnly avow that long before the Woodhull publication I knew him by insinuation and direct statement to have repeated to my very near relatives and friends the substance of these accusations, which shock the moral sense of the entire community, that many times when hearing that certain persons had spoken ill of him he has sent me to chide them for so doing, and then and there I learned he had been before me with his calumnies against myself, so that I was [illegible]. The reiteration in his statement that he had [illegible] striven to hide these so called facts is utterly false, as his hatred to Mr. Beecher has existed these many years and the determination to ruin Mr. Beecher has been the one aim of his life.

Again, the [illegible] with which he held the love of a wife ever [illegible] has been [illegible] well nigh a sacrilege, and added to this is the endeavor [illegible] like the early [illegible] of Mr. Woodhull to [illegible] own words condemn me. [illegible] I most conspicuously my [illegible] the [illegible] of

CATHARINE GAUNT

Had Mr. Tilton read the noble character of Catharine Gaunt he would have seen that I lifted myself beside it as near as any human being may affect an ideal, but it was her character, and not the incidents of the action surrounding it to which I referred. Hers was not a sin of criminal act or thought. A like confession with hers I had made to Mr. Tilton, telling of my love to my friend and pastor one [illegible] and I now add that notwithstanding all misrepresentations and anguish of soul I owe to my acquaintance and friendship with Mr. Beecher, as to no other human instrumentality that encouragement of my mental life and that growth toward the divine nature which enable me to walk daily in a lively hope of a life beyond the grave.

The charges in articles seven and nine are artfully false in each and every particular. The letter referred to in Mr. Tilton's tenth paragraph was obtained from me by importunity and by representations that it was necessary for him to use in his then pending difficulties with Mr. Bowen. [illegible]

SICK [illegible] UNTO DEATH.

Having suffered a miscarriage only four days before, I signed whatever he required without knowing or understanding its import. The paper [illegible] never seen and do not know what statements it contained.

In charge eighteen a letter of mine addressed to Frank Moulton is quoted to prove that I had never desired a separation or was advised by Mr. or Mrs. Beecher to leave my husband. I reply that the letter was of Mr. Tilton's own concocting, which he gave me to copy and sign as my own. The implication that the harmony of the home was unbroken till Beecher entered it as a frequent guest [illegible] friend [illegible]

[illegible]

Upon the household where the man [illegible] years before laid the corner stone of free love and [illegible] up to the time of [illegible] the atmosphere was [illegible] godless, but for me [illegible] for my children and in the three [illegible] [illegible] teachings.

His frequent [illegible] to prove me insane, weak-minded [illegible] of me impress [illegible] all rank in the category of heartless selfishness and falsehood, having its climax in his present endeavor to convince the world that I am [illegible] have been unable to distinguish between an innocent and a guilty love. Summing up the whole matter, I affirm myself before God to be innocent of the crimes laid upon me; that never have I been guilty of adultery with Henry Ward Beecher in thought or deed, nor has he ever offered me any indecorous or improper proposals.

To the further charge that I was led away from my home by Mr. Beecher's friend and by the advice of a lawyer whom Mr. Beecher had sent to me, who, in advance of my appearing before the Committee, arranged with me the questions and answers which are to constitute my testimony in Mr. Beecher's behalf, I answer that this is again untrue, having never seen the lawyer till introduced to him a few moments before the arrival of the Committee by my stepfather, Judge Morse. In further reply I submit the following statement of my actions before the Committee. The publication of Mr. Tilton's letter, in answer to Dr. Bacon, I had not known of, nor expected, when on Wednesday evening he brought home the [illegible]. He handed it to me to read, and looking down its columns I saw, well nigh with blinding eyes, that he had put into execution the [illegible]

[illegible] THREAT [illegible]

That he had to crush out Mr. Beecher, that the God of battles was with him. He [illegible] always been Mr. Beecher's supporter and all that he in his pathway [illegible] [illegible] He [illegible] they [illegible] before [illegible] purpose [illegible] [illegible] before. [illegible] what [illegible] from Beecher? Two [illegible] Elizabeth all letters and papers concerning my difficulties with Mr. Beecher and Mr. Bowen [illegible]

Did you believe that [illegible] [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible] my character [illegible] my vindication [illegible] truthfully [illegible] grateful, but now I shall [illegible] scrap of paper referring to my [illegible] however remote, which it seems to me you might use or pervert for your own ends I will destroy it.

THIS MEANT BATTLE

on your part then? Just so far, I replied. I write this, because these words of a mother has since used to my harm. The next morning I went to my brother and told him that, now I had decided to act in this matter, that I had been [illegible] by my husband as a non[illegible] from the beginning—a plaything, to be used or to be let alone at will—and that it [illegible] I seemed to me I was a party not a little concerned, and I showed him a card I had made for publication. He respected the [illegible] but [illegible] advised silence on my part. I yielded this [illegible] as to appearing in the public prints, but [illegible] counseling with myself and no other it occurred to me that among the brethren of my own communion I might be heard. Not knowing of any Church Committee, I asked the privilege of such an interview in the parlors of those who had always been our mutual friends—Mr. and Mrs. Ovington. I then learned for the first time that the Committee would meet that night, and they advised me to [illegible] these gentlemen as perhaps the godliest persons I could select. This I accordingly did. There alone I stated the cause of my trouble and what I had suffered for my children, the result being that their hearts were moved in sympathy for my family, a feeling they [illegible] hared for years, and for which [illegible] was [illegible] suffering.

[illegible] I found my husband reading in bed. I told him where I had been and that I did not conceal anything from him, as he was in the habit of doing from me. He asked who the gentlemen were; he said no more, but [illegible] himself and bade me

GOOD BYE FOR EVER

The midnight following I was awakened by my husband standing by my bedside, and in a very tender voice he said he wished to see me. I arose instantly and followed him to his bedside. He drew me into his lap and said he was proud of me, that he loved me so that no thing ever gave him such real peace and satisfaction as to hear me well spoken of; at that meeting, as I had been by a member of the Committee; he had been mistaken as to my motive in seeing the Committee, and he [illegible] that he had been thoroughly wretched since [illegible] harsh treatment the night before, etc. Then and there we consecrated sacredly our hearts and lives, I most utterly renewing the trust in the one human heart I loved. The next day, how happy we were! The [illegible] wrote a statement to present to the Committee which they should call upon him to testify, which I heartily accepted. This document, God knows! was a true history of his affair completely vindicating my honor and the honor of my pastor. In the afternoon he left me [illegible] to his friends. He returned early in the evening. I passing

THE HAPPIEST HOURS

I had known for years, he assuring me that there were no rest for him away from me. So in grateful love to the dear Father I slept. Oh that the end had then come! I would not then have received the cruel blow which made a woman mad outright. The next morning he called upon Mr. and Mrs. Ovington, and there with a shocking bravado began a wicked tirade, adding with oaths and violence the shameful slanders against Mr. Beecher of this fearful scene I learned the next day, which I now believe him to be the author. Of

In the afternoon he showed me his invitation from the Committee to meet them that evening. I did not show my hurt, but carried it heavily within, but calmly without. All night till early morning I spent in reflection upon this scene at Mr. Ovington's, and it convinced me that, notwithstanding my husband's recent professions to me, his former spirit was unchanged, that his declarations of repentance and affection were only for the purpose of gaining my assurance to accomplish his ends in his warfare upon Beecher. In the light of these conclusions my duty appeared plain. I rose quietly and, having dressed, roused him only to say "Theodore, I will never take another step by your side."

THE END HAS INDEED COME

He followed me to Mrs. Ovington's to breakfast, and said I was unduly excited and that he had been misrepresented perhaps, but finally leaving me as determined as before. How to account for the change which twenty four hours had been capable of working in his mind, I then fixed for many years past, I leave for the Eternities with their mysteries to reveal. That he is an unreliable and unsafe guide, whose love of truth, loving is self loving, it [illegible] my misfortune in this late sad hour to discover.

ELIZABETH R. TILTON.

Mr. Beecher's Defense of Mrs. Tilton.

NEW YORK, July 22.—The Rev. Henry Ward Beecher returned to Brooklyn last night from Peekskill. When he saw for the first time the statement presented to the Investigating Committee by Tilton, which was published yesterday, he [illegible] met the charges in the following card:

I do not propose at this time a detailed examination of the remarkable statement of Mr. Theodore Tilton, made before the Committee of Investigation, and which appears in the Brooklyn Argus of July 21, 1874. I recognize the many reasons which make it of transcendent importance to myself, the church and the cause of public morality that I shall give a full answer to the charges against me, but having requested the Committee of Investigation to search this matter to the bottom, it is to them that I must look to for my vindication. But I cannot delay for an hour to defend the reputation of Mrs. Elizabeth R. Tilton, upon whose name in connection with mine her husband has attempted to pour shame. One less deserving of such disgrace I never knew. From childhood she has been under my eye, and since reaching womanhood she has had my sincere admiration.

MR. BEECHER'S TRUE FEELING

I cherish for her a pure feeling such as a gentleman might honorably offer to a Christian woman, and which she might receive and reciprocate without morals corrupt. I reject with indignation every imputation which reflects upon her honor or my own. My regard for Mrs. Tilton was perfectly well known to my family. When serious difficulties sprang up in her household it was to my wife that she resorted for counsel, and both of us, acting from sympathy and, as it subsequently appeared, without full knowledge, gave unadvised counsel which tended to harm. I have no doubt that Mr. Tilton found that his wife's confidence and reliance upon my judgment had greatly increased while his influence had diminished in consequence of a marked change in his religious and social views which were taking place during those years. Her mind was greatly exercised lest her children should be harmed by views which she deemed vitally false and dangerous. I was suddenly and rudely roused to the reality of impending danger by the disclosures of domestic stress, of sickness, perhaps of death, and the likelihood of a separation and scattering of a family every member of which I had tenderly loved. The effect upon me of this discovery of the state of Mr. Tilton's feelings and condition of his family surpassed in sorrow and excitement anything that I had ever experienced in my life. That my presence, influence and counsel had brought to a beloved family sorrow and alienation, gave in my then state of mind a poignancy to my suffering which I hope no other man may ever feel. I seemed to be suspected of having offered under privileges of a peculiarly sacred relation an indecorum to a wife and mother [illegible] could not but keenly wound [illegible] sensitive to the honor of [illegible] There were peculiar reasons for [illegible] in this case in other grounds, inasmuch as I was then subject to certain malignant rumors [illegible] flagrant outbreak in this family would bring upon them an added injury derived from these shameless falsehoods. Believing at the time that my presence and counsels had tended, however unconsciously, to produce

SOCIAL CATASTROPHE

Represented as imminent, I gave expression to my feelings in an interview with a mutual friend, not in cold and cautious self-depending words but eagerly taking blame upon myself and pouring out my very heart to my friend in the strongest language, overburdened with exaggerations of impassioned sorrow. Had I been the evil man Mr. Tilton now represents, I should have been calmer and more prudent. It was the horror of the evil imputed that filled me with morbid intensity at the very shadow of it. Not only was my friend affected, but he assured me that such expressions of conveyed to Mr. Tilton would soothe the wounded feelings, allay the anger and heal the whole trouble. He took down the sentences and fragments of what I had been saying to use them as a mediator. A full statement of the circumstances under which this memorandum was made I shall give to the Investigating Committee. That these apologies were more than ample to meet the facts of the case is evident in that they were accepted; that intercourse resumed its friendliness; that Mr. Tilton subsequently ratified it in writing, and that he has continued for four years and until within two weeks to live with his wife. Is it conceivable if the original charge had been what is now alleged that he would have condoned the offense, not only with the mother of his children, but with me, whom he believed to have wronged him?

THE ABSURDITY AS WELL AS THE FALSITY

Of the story is apparent when it is considered that Mr. Tilton now alleges that he carried the guilty secret of his wife's infidelity for six months locked up in his own breast, and that then he divulged it to me only that there might be a reconciliation with me. Mr. Tilton has since in every form of language and to a multitude of witnesses orally and in written statements and in printed documents, declared his faith in his wife's purity. After the reconciliation of Mr. Tilton with me every consideration of propriety and honor demanded that the family trouble should be kept in that seclusion which domestic affairs have a right to claim as a sanctuary, and to that seclusion it was determined that it should be confined. Every line and word of my private and confidential letters which have been published is in harmony with the statement which I now make. My public correspondence on this subject comprises but two elements—expression of my grief and that of my desire to shield the honor of

A PURE AND INNOCENT WOMAN

I do not propose to analyze and contest at this time the extraordinary paper of Mr. Tilton, but there are two allegations which I cannot permit to pass without a special notice. They refer to only two incidents, which Mr. Tilton pretends to have witnessed personally, one an alleged scene in my house while looking over engravings, and the other a chamber scene in his own house. His statements concerning these are absolutely false. Nothing of the kind ever occurred, nor any semblance of any such thing. They are now brought to my notice for the first time. To every statement which connects me dishonorably with Mrs. Elizabeth R. Tilton, or which in any wise would impugn the honor or purity of this beloved Christian woman, I give the most explicit, comprehensive and solemn denial.

HENRY WARD BEECHER.

BROOKLYN, July 22, 1874.

Interview with Mr. Tilton.

[Special dispatch to the Chicago Tribune.]

NEW YORK, July 18.—Your correspondent had an interview with Mr. Theodore Tilton this morning at Mr. Tilton's residence, in Livingstone street, Brooklyn. The correspondent was received at the door by Mr. T. himself, courteously greeted and conducted to the library, a sunny little room, separated from the parlor by sliding-doors. On the walls were many beautiful pictures in oil and steel engravings, among them the famous painting of Shakspeare showing the scar over the left eye by the artist William Page, who, with other noted Shakspearian scholars, contends that the face of the poet bore the blemish. There also was the celebrated painting of Christ made by Page from sittings of Tilton, his friend, whom the painter thinks resembles the great Advocate of Mankind. Mr. Tilton himself opened the conversation by thanking the Tribune, through its correspondent, for the calm, impartial way in which it has treated questions at issue between the pastor of Plymouth Church and himself. Some newspapers had jumped to conclusions and had from the outset attributed his conduct in the case either to insanity or to mercenary motives, but the Tribune, with judicial acumen, had refused to condemn until evidence of guilt was brought forward.

MRS. TILTON'S COURSE.

The story of how Mrs. Tilton came to go before the Investigating Committee has never been told from an authoritative source. At the correspondent's request, Mr. Tilton related it as told him by his wife. Her associates all along have been prominent members of Plymouth Church and warm friends of Mr. Beecher. By them she had been urged from time to time to go forward and tell all she knew of the difficulty and end the scandal at once and forever. The cause of religion had already been injured by it, and the prosperity of Plymouth Church was endangered. If her husband had spoken the truth and was suffering from apprehensions that he had spoken falsely, it was her duty to vindicate him. If her pastor was the injured man

IT WAS HER DUTY TO REFUTE THE HINTED CHARGES

Of her husband. This advice did its work, and the result was that, through a friend, she asked Mr. Beecher what it was best for her to do. Mr. Beecher answered that it would not be proper for him to see or advise her in the matter, but recommended her to his lawyer, Gen. Benjamin F. Tracy, one of the most prominent members of the Brooklyn Bar. She wrote to Gen. Tracy, who replied by appointing an interview for last Thursday evening at the residence of a mutual acquaintance, who, it is needless to say, was one of Beecher's friends. She was at the place named at the stated hour. Gen. Tracy appeared promptly. He

ADVISED HER TO TESTIFY BEFORE THE COMMITTEE,

And told her what questions she might expect to be asked. While they were yet conversing all the members of the Investigating Committee came in one by one, without doubt by preconcerted arrangement, and some one remarked that the present was a convenient time for her examination. Everybody thought this was a remarkably apt suggestion, and it was acted upon.

MRS. TILTON WAS ONLY ASKED TWO QUESTIONS.

First. Was there ever any improper intercourse between Mr. Beecher and yourself? and, second, Did Mr. Beecher ever make any improper overtures to you? To both these questions she answered no. Then the lady made a brief address. She insisted that both her husband and Mr. Beecher were great honorable and worthy men, who were at loggerheads through a singular misapprehension. She dwelt on the harm done to the cause of Christianity by the false story circulated about Mr. Beecher, which put him who had forty years been urging on the people the beauty and wisdom of a virtuous and religious life in the light of a hypocrite and knave, and spoke of the sufferings of her husband till nearly all her hearers were in tears. Thus closed the examination. "Poor woman," said Mr. Tilton to your correspondent.

[illegible] GUILTY OF DELIBERATE FALSEHOOD

On that occasion, but it was from the best of motives in the world.

In response to a question as to his motives for keeping silent so long, and at last consenting to make specific charges, Mr. Tilton said that all his personal friends who knew the facts had, before Mr. Tilton announced that his cloth their paths lay apart, advised him to

[illegible] SILENCE FOR HER SAKE

And as this accorded with his own sentiments, he had done so, but now that by leaving him she had withdrawn herself from his protection, and to a certain extent, from his pity, he was no longer under obligations to keep silence. His friends now insisted that it was his duty to himself and to his children to make a statement, and prove that he had not been heedlessly or deliberately swearing away a man's reputation. These were the motives of his conduct. He was constantly interrupted by reporters of the local press, who, when he had declined to unburden himself of all his secrets to them, went away and manufactured stories and published them in their respective papers as coming from him.

Answering further questions, Mr. Tilton said that his friends were very indignant at the audacity and wickedness—yes, he thought he was justified in saying the wickedness—of Beecher in appointing a committee to make an investigation of the case. None understood better than Mr. Beecher the intense misery that an impartial investigation of the facts must engender. If Mr. Beecher anticipated that his Committee would make a fair investigation and render an honest verdict, his act in forming it was identical with the cool signing of a warrant for the utter ruin of an innocent man's (Tilton's) home and issuing the death warrant of his own reputation as an honorable Christian man; but he doubted if Mr. Beecher anticipated any such thing. It was merely a piece of bravado, though of the most wonderful bravado under the circumstances on record. Mr. Beecher believed, he supposed, that the offer to have an investigation would exonerate himself before the public, and that the reluctance of his accuser to make specific charges, since it would affect the reputation of one who had been cherished by him (the accuser), would not be overcome even by this last great provocation.

THE SEPARATION OF MR. AND MRS. TILTON

Was very quietly made. On Saturday she notified him of her intention. He assented and she went away. The wife has no ill will for her husband, neither has the husband any for the wife. That this is true is now proved. Since Saturday they have mutually agreed that papers of separation should be drawn up in legal form. It was proposed that the matter be left to the respective lawyers of the two. Mr. Tilton refused to do this, and said he was content to leave it in the hands of Mrs. Tilton's step father, who, while he retains all his affection for his daughter, has been and still is, a warm personal friend of Mr. Tilton. With rare generosity Mr. Tilton is having papers drawn deeding the beautiful house and all it contains to Mrs. Tilton. The act is done without solicitation. When the papers of separation are finished, Mrs. Tilton will return to her old home, and he who has shared it with her for many years goes out from it forever, leaving behind him all the beautiful pictures, rare books—everything except perhaps a few books of reference.

THE CHILDREN,

Who are now with him, will remain in the house with their mother. Mr. Tilton will take rooms in New York.

MOULTON'S REPUTATION

A Brooklyn evening paper says that a prominent resident of that city is ready to go before the investigating Committee and swear that Frank Moulton once declared to him that he had never seen Mr. Beecher's letters to Mr. Tilton in which the divine humbled himself as he did before his God, and that no such document ever existed.

Tilton's Cross-Examination.

BROOKLYN, July 23.—Tilton was before the Investigating Committee yesterday afternoon, and examined at length by General Tracy, Beecher's counsel. The tenor of this examination was as follows: He was first questioned regarding his relations with Mrs. Woodhull. Tilton manifested the greatest indignation at the implication that he had been guilty of the same offense with Woodhull that he had charged against Beecher and Mrs. Tilton. He was also questioned with regard to his relations with several other women, and to each gave an indignant denial, threatening that if this kind of warfare was to be kept up on himself, he also would have some names to mention and would expose other parties. Tracy then put the direct question to Tilton, "Did you ever commit adultery?" Tilton declined to be questioned that way. It is also said that during Tilton's examination he stated facts which proved that he was himself the sole inspiration of the Woodhull scandal, and that he gave Woodhull all the alleged facts on which her exposure was founded. He had also endeavored to persuade Beecher to preside over the Woodhull woman's meeting, using as an inducement the necessity of Beecher's conciliating Mrs. Woodhull, who, he said, was in possession of damaging rumors against him.

In answer to a question by Tracy as to whether he had any evidence of Beecher's adultery except what he said his wife told him, Tilton replied, "I have none whatever." It also appears that one of Beecher's letters, from which Tilton in his statement extracted a few lines of doubtful meaning, is over a column long. Tilton has twice promised to produce it, but has not yet done so. Tilton's cross examination will be resumed before the Committee this afternoon, when Tracy will press for the original letter alluded to.

It is not deemed possible that Frank Moulton's or Mrs. Beecher's examination will be made before to-morrow afternoon or Saturday.

GENERAL BUTLER COUNSEL FOR TILTON

It is rumored that Benj. F. Butler will appear before the Committee as Tilton's counsel.

It is stated that Mrs. Woodhull is now on her way East to testify in the Beecher case in defense of Tilton, she having received from Tilton an answer to her message preferring testimony in his behalf.

Mr. Beecher says he does not know when his formal statement will be ready.

Tilton's Statement—His Anger and Grief at its Publication.

NEW YORK, July 23.—Tilton says of his statement: "I would not have had it published for a hundred thousand dollars. Augustus Maverick, my friend, who copied the original, published it first in his Brooklyn paper out of friendship for me. When I heard of it I went to my room in the Astor House and threw myself on my bed in despair." Yesterday Maverick received the following note:

"MY DEAR MAVERICK: From no other person, save either yourself, as my copyist, or from the committee's short-hand writer or from some member of the committee, could my sworn statement have got into print. My heart is bowed and bleeding at seeing these facts spread before the world. How could you have taken such an awful, dreadful, horrible responsibility without counseling me in advance? There now remains no possibility of peace or silence—nothing but everlasting woe. Explain yourself. You must do it both to me and to the public. Yours in grief,

THEODORE TILTON."

Maverick, in publishing the note, says: "As one of his (Tilton's) staunch friends, loving and knowing him to be a long abused man, and that he often shrank from hurting others in order to shield himself, I resolved this defense should be published, and I published it. I did so without his knowledge or consent, and I did right, and stand by the act as an act of justice to the man who has been wronged and to the community that has a right to know all the facts."

Beecher's Love Letters.

A gentleman whose official business has led him to receiving and opening much of Beecher's correspondence said last evening: "In Beecher's love letters you would be surprised to know how foolishly some women write to him. Every once in a while a woman gets a little crazy and writes to Beecher to tell him how much she adores him. Letters used to go to the Independent office and Tilton, under orders from Beecher, opened many of them. He made copies and to-day has the manuscript and names and copies of letters all connected with respectable ladies who have [illegible] written to Beecher all about their love for him. He received the love letters by the ream and cord, and the joke of it is that his wife takes care of all the letters that come to him. She reads the love letters before he sees them. Mrs. Tilton's letters to Beecher were affectionate and enthusiastic, expressing a deep pervading love for him. Mrs. Beecher read them all before he saw them, and they are all in her possession now. When the scandal was raised, Mrs. Beecher looked up the letters and at Mrs. Tilton's request has preserved them for her. You cannot convince Mrs. Beecher that her husband is guilty of anything that Tilton charged. She says, 'If all the women in creation would swear that Beecher had been unfaithful, I would not believe them.'"

Tilton again before the Committee.

BROOKLYN, July 23.—Mr. Tilton went to the Committee room at 3 o'clock to-day with a bundle of papers and letters from Mrs. Tilton to himself. The letters from Mrs. Tilton were read. The Committee remained in session for a short time and adjourned to meet again to-morrow. Having concluded the cross-examination of Tilton, they read a statement made by Mrs. Tilton, and when they reached that part in which she details her husband's return to her after their first breach, when they renewed the covenant of heart and life, and when he shows to her the first statement which he had written for the Committee, they considered it strongly in favor of Mr. Beecher. This document is now much sought for. It is said to be still in Mr. Tilton's hands, but that in proper time it will be filed with the Committee as testimony. They believe with Mrs. Tilton that it contains the true history of the affair.

General Tracy said this evening that he had not heard of any attempt to reconcile the gentlemen. He believes Mr. Beecher will be completely vindicated, and that the testimony of Frank Moulton will not darken that phase of the case in the least. Gen. Tracy said that Beecher was at work upon an elaborate statement refuting in detail all of the allegations by Tilton. That statement would be given to the public after it had been submitted to the Committee.

The "Golden Age" Assumes that Beecher is Guilty.

NEW YORK, July 23.—The Golden Age, formerly Tilton's paper, now owned and edited by W. T. Clark, in its issue of to-day has an editorial on Tilton's late statement before the Investigation Committee. It sympathizes with Tilton and praises his magnanimity in bearing his burden of wrong so long. It says:

"It is an awful sorrow that covers the land to-day. The most popular and best beloved preacher in America is stricken down with what is a thousand times worse than the dagger's stroke. If he survives, it will be as the shivered and blasted oak, every day revealing the effects of the lightning. What answer he can make to this simple, consistent and apparently truthful statement, backed by convincing evidence, it is impossible to conjecture, but no answer he can possibly make will lift him to the pedestal he has fallen from. The sorrow of the community is too deep for condemnation. Let the pity be as profound and as unutterable as the pain. The statement clears the air of smoke and must alter the public estimate of an injured and traduced man. The delicacy of Tilton's reticence, the nobility of his forbearance and his generosity toward one whom he carried in his arms till she broke out of them and leaped into another's, will touch every soul that can appreciate such matters."

The Popular Effect of Beecher's Statement.

NEW YORK, July 23.—The statement of Henry Ward Beecher, published this morning, and giving a general denial of Tilton's charges, and declaring his particular allegations false, has produced a feeling of relief. His further statement, however, is waited for before the effect produced on the public mind by Tilton's extraordinary statement can be entirely reversed. Friends of the Plymouth pastor maintain steadfastly their perfect faith in his purity and confidence in his ability to disprove the charges which would otherwise stamp his name with infamy.

The morning papers still suspend judgment in the matter, evidently considering Beecher's course merely preliminary to a full and comprehensive statement, in which the Plymouth pastor will meet each and every allegation of Tilton's. Several days must elapse before such a statement can be ready.

Several Weeks of Suspense.

BROOKLYN, July 23.—It will be several weeks before the Beecher Investigating Committee will be able to report, as Tilton's statement has rendered it necessary to call a large number of witnesses.

The New York Press on Beecher's Card.

NEW YORK, July 23.—Regarding Beecher's card, to-day's Tribune says the explicit and manly defense of Mrs. Tilton which Beecher addresses to the public will be received with unalloyed delight. The denial of Tilton's allegations is unequivocal and absolute, and both Mr. and Mrs. Beecher appear as the defenders of the assailed wife. The explanation of Beecher's own letters, which alone have harmed him, is hinted at rather than detailed, and it will be a serious mistake for the committee to act on the theory which Beecher seems to have adopted, that the full explanations need not reach the public at the earliest moment. Meantime decent people will rejoice at the great encouragement given by Beecher's preliminary statement.

In another letter the Tribune correspondent says: "There is good authority for stating that Mrs. Tilton's examination was conducted after a decidedly original manner. All the questions which she did answer were leading and were put to her by Mr. Beecher's counsel."

The Times concludes a critical article, in which the absurdity of part of Beecher's allegations is noticed, as follows: "After making due allowance for the excited state of Beecher's feelings in penning this document, let us hope he will follow it up with something that plain people can understand, and that will furnish his friends with a substantial reason for the faith which they still repose in his unsullied honor."

The Sun says: "The public will now await the full statement of Beecher, and further developments in this great scandal, with deep anxiety."

A DOG AND A SNAKE STORY.—Several days ago a gentleman in this city went out into the country fowling, taking with him an experienced pointer. After hunting some time he observed the dog come to a sudden stop, and supposing the dog had "stood" a bird, advanced to shoot it. But coming nearer he noticed that the animal was foaming at the mouth, as if suffering from the effects of hydrophobia. Under closer observation he discovered that the dog was the victim of an enormous snake, which was charming it and steadily advancing on its prey. The dog stood immovable, perfectly transfixed. The gentleman spoke to it, but it gave no heed, so completely was it under the influence of the dread charmer. Seeing that the dog was in the most excruciating agony the gentleman raised the gun and shot the snake dead. Instantly and simultaneously with the shot and the death of the snake the dog fell down perfectly helpless and to all appearances dead. It revived after some little time, but had it not been for some timely assistance from the master it is believed that the poor animal would have expired with the vicious reptile of whose charm it was the victim. The snake in question was a blue racer, about four or five feet long.—Atlanta (Ga.) Sun.

HOW BRICKS ARE CARRIED IN NEW ORLEANS.—After all, we don't believe this thing of taking all sorts of work away from the negro will do exactly. If you pass along the new Hibernia Hall, now in course of erection, you will observe sundry stalwart Africans with piles of bricks upon their heads, skimming up ladders in the lightest and most agile style. White men couldn't do that, could they? If you were to walk under that ladder while a white man was going up with seventeen bricks on his head you would probably go down with several of those bricks on your head. As it is you take your chances with that calm confidence of mind and tranquility of spirit which your knowledge of the negro's phrenological formation inspires. All of which convinces us that there are certain branches of labor wherein we cannot dispense with Sambo.

The Olympia Courier says: "In the late mail lettings, the lowest bidder for carrying the mail between Seattle and Port Blakely, weekly, was $350. The Postmaster General informs the Postmaster here that but $150 will be paid for that service, and if it cannot be done for that amount, in currency, the office at Port Blakely will be suspended. There are over 300 persons supplied with mail matter at that office, and a lumber company doing a business of $1,500,000 annually. All these are to be cut off from mail facilities because no one can be found to carry the mail at the price arbitrarily fixed by the Postmaster General, who knows nothing about it."

TUESDAY MORNING JULY 28 1874

WHO SNEER AT REFORM

The ring papers of New York City are enjoying the exhibitions of weakness of Mayor Havemeyer [illegible] Havemeyer was elected as the candidate of a Reform movement, and nothing could be more pleasing to the ring crowd than the disappointment of the people in his administration. Though there is, so far as one can see in the newspapers no evidence tending to show him to be a corrupt man he is not fulfilling the expectations of those who advocated his election nor displaying any such ability as his situation demands. This is taken hold of by the ring papers as ground for sneers at all attempts at reform in politics. And the lesser lights of ring journalism of both parties throughout the country take up the refrain and repeat after their great masters that Reform in politics means rascality. That Tweed, the creature of party rule was proved a thief and is now atoning for his public crimes in a public prison, that he and the ring of which he was acknowledged chief plundered the City Treasury to the amount of millions of dollars and had their plans fully matured and partially executed to extend the robbery to still further millions, that in order the better to enable themselves to carry on their system of wholesale theft they had already debauched and corrupted every department of the public service from the highest down to the lowest, that all these things are indisputable parts of the public history of the city which the hardiest do not attempt to gainsay, all these facts signify nothing and receive no consideration at the hands of the partisan politicians. True the rule of Havemeyer is as much less bad than that of the rings that preceded him as it is possible for one faulty administration to be worse than another, as much less bad as inattention or want of executive ability is less bad than positive corruption. But what does that argue? Nothing to the ring intellect. No comparisons is to be instituted. If the reform movement has failed to produce all the desired results at once it is written down a failure in toto. A reformatory effort that does not at once accomplish everything in a day, and especially that is not absolutely infallible in the selection of its officers is a failure in everything according to the party modes of thinking and merits less consideration than the worst partisan rule that can be imagined.

New York is an example on a large scale of what we have here in Oregon on a small scale. The same course is adopted by the ring people out here to discourage every endeavor to reform the administration of public affairs. A person who demands retrenchment, reduction of taxation, return to the economy and simplicity of the Constitution in the management of public business is considered a visionary whose ideas cannot be put into force, or a knave who is making that demand a hobby on which he himself can ride into power or accomplish some other personal object. The argument stripped of all impertinent matter and disarmed of its poisoned arrow of ridicule, is plainly that every effort to correct abuses in the public service should be abandoned and the whole matter left in the hands of the acknowledged knaves and rogues because under the best system of administration there will sometimes be found unworthy officers and abuses will occasionally be practiced. Dishonesty is the best policy. It requires neither argument nor illustration to show that when this partisan view shall prevail generally there will be little left to contend for in our free Government. Whenever a man is found sneering and scoffing at attempts to reform public abuses that man will do to watch. He is the friend of dishonesty if not himself dishonest.

CHANGES IN EASTSIDE MANAGEMENT

At the time we penned the note that appeared in yesterday's OREGONIAN concerning the change that has been made in the management of the Oregon and California railway we were not fully informed in the premises as we have ascertained since. We were not misinformed, our statement being correct as far as it went but still further changes were made at the same time with those we referred to.

The receipts of the road are no longer to be handled by Mr Holladay but are to go into the possession of Mr Kohler the receiver put in by the bondholders, who remains in this country to attend to the business thus devolved upon him. The bondholders also required that three of the old Directors of the road retire that their places might be filled with persons designated by the agent of the creditors. The new Directors named are Mr Kohler the receiver, Mr H Thielsen and Hon Stephen F Chadwick. Mr Villard the agent of the bondholders in the transaction of this branch of the business we learn proposed the names successively of several prominent business men of this city to fill the third place after Messrs Kohler and Thielsen had been chosen but Mr Holladay so strenuously opposed them that Mr Villard forbore to press the matter to extremity, and Mr Chadwick's name being kindly received he was designated as a person agreeable to all parties.

The salary of the President was fixed at $7 200 per year, to be paid as other employes of the company are paid.

This does not look very much as if the creditors were so hugely satisfied with Mr Ben Holladay's management of the affairs of the road as the Bulletin would have its readers believe. Our charges heretofore have for the most part related to the original swindle by which the money of the bondholders was wrongfully obtained and the interests of Oregon sacrificed but it appears that the subsequent management of the road has been equally unsatisfactory.

We have probably referred to this subject as often as the public interests require unless the case shall take on some new phase but this reference is made necessary by the development of the evidence incontrovertibly showing that it was the Bulletin and not the OREGONIAN that made the incorrect statement.

It is proper to say and it may as well be said here as anywhere, that in yesterday's OREGONIAN we intended to say that the receiver was not put in without Mr Holladay's consent, but in the haste of writing we inadvertently omitted the word not, which made the statement exactly the opposite of what we intended. The entire article taken together however showed very clearly that it was a mistake.

A QUESTION OF PRACTICE

An interesting question of practice in the courts has been lately decided in the Supreme Courts of Massachusetts and Rhode Island the two decisions being directly opposite each other. Under the act of Congress providing for the removal of causes from State courts into the Federal courts at any time before the trial or final hearing the Supreme Court of Massachusetts in Galpin v. [illegible] held that an application to remove the cause after it has been submitted to a jury and the jury had failed to agree comes too late and must be denied. The same question arose shortly afterwards in the Supreme Court of Rhode Island in [illegible] vs The Delaware and Hudson River Railway Company and the Court granted the removal. Counsel opposed to the petition cited the Massachusetts case but the opinion of the Rhode Island court disposes of the matter of authority of that case in a summary manner saying "We cannot acquiesce in the reasoning or the conclusion in that case." Judge Redfield in a note to this last case says substantially that the Rhode Island court has decided the law as it is while the Massachusetts court laid down the rule of decency which Congress should have pursued. The last case is published in the July number of the American Law Register.

The Arizona Miner of July 7th vehemently opposes the proposition to abandon the Verde Reservation in that Territory urging public reasons as well as good faith to the Indians who have gone upon the Verde Reservation under a solemn promise that they should not be required to leave there. This promise the Apaches claim and the Miner with apparent good ground says the compelling them now to go to some other country would be a violation of the contract and a breach of faith. Since General Crook brought the Apaches to this Reservation they have prospered as those on no other Reservation have and are rapidly forming the habits and adopting the modes of life that belong to the whites.

KATE STODDARD'S INSANITY.—Kate Stoddard accused of the murder of Mr Goodrich was taken before the County Judge of New York on the 13th inst and an investigation into her sanity was then commenced. From the N Y Tribune's report of the proceedings we take the following:

Thomas W Peters of Providence R I said that Kate Stoddard lived with him and that she acted strangely; she was always singing and talking to herself; she had a favorite cat which she thought had fleas; she washed it with kerosene oil, pouring the oil all over it; in consequence the hair all came off and then the cat got sick; she attempted to cure it by stuffing dry buns down its throat; the cat wouldn't swallow and then [illegible] out of door and it died. Here the prisoner shouted "That's a lie; she did not lie; she was the smartest and best cat in the neighborhood."

Those of our readers who may have noticed that Wm M Tweed is frequently mentioned in our dispatches to the exclusion of other and equally meritorious thieves will appreciate this from the Chicago Tribune which to our notion is well put:

Once upon a time there was an old gentleman named Tweed and he lived in a big house and he made lots of money dishonestly and he corrupted the Administration of a great city and he first taught the American people to a more successful knavery and he was found out at last and he was sent to prison for all his wickedness and it served him right. That is all the story. There is no more moral to it than we have given. This being true the people and the press can well afford to do without further bulletins in regard to Mr Tweed's prison life. His story is told.

It was [illegible] which would be made between [illegible] and Clapp [illegible] but the former finally withdrew and Clapp [illegible] the nomination.

This will put an end to the agony of the Washington [illegible] which has been bitter in its opposition to the great investigator because of the part he took in ferreting out the District of Columbia frauds notwithstanding Mr Wilson is an eminent Republican.

COUNCILS OF HONOR.—Berlin July 20.—Regulations have just been issued for the formation of Councils of Honor among Prussian officers. Every officer who considers his honor attacked by a comrade is required to give information to this tribunal and no duel can come off without its approval or until the failure of any other solution. The President of the tribunal is to be present at the duel to see that it is properly conducted. TUESDAY MORNING JULY 28 1874

CITY.

IN SNAKESVILLE.—Yesterday we called at the Museum [illegible] to look at the rattlesnakes lately captured in Yamhill county and on exhibition there. We found these highly interesting pets securely fastened in a wooden box and therefore entirely harmless—on the outside. On the top of the box is an oval shaped aperture, in which is placed a piece of glass. This glass is nearly an inch in thickness and possesses powerful magnifying properties. In looking into the box which is not more than 12 feet in dimension it appears as if you are gazing into a room ten feet square. Of course the serpents are magnified in proportion and seem to be almost as large as [illegible]. Besides the discoloration of the [illegible] so characteristic of this species of [illegible] and the eyes are wonderfully magnified and can be seen to much greater advantage than if observed under ordinary circumstances. The eyes especially can be seen with a startling distinctness. They appear larger than a pea and that peculiar bright magnetic fire which lurks in the eye of a serpent can be observed glittering and scintillating like diamonds. When disturbed or angered the head dilates the jaws distend and the tongue protrudes. To arouse these snakes to the striking point one only has to give the box a vigorous shake. From appearances we should judge that the two specimens have recently shed their skins as the [illegible] and the [illegible] bright. There is one marked peculiarity about the rattlesnakes worthy of attention. By placing the open palm flat against the ends of the box containing the saurians and holding them there for a moment a singular sensation is experienced first in the hand but which gradually creeps up into the arms. A sharp prickling feeling is experienced producing spasmodic contractions of the muscles of the arm precisely such as are felt when a slight electrical shock is sent through them. This is no fancy and if any one is incredulous he or she can make the experiment. The feeling is evidently produced by electricity evolved from the snake [illegible] generates the subtle fluid we leave to our more scientific readers to determine.

PANTHER SLAYERS.—Last week two boys of this city James Moffett and Hamilton neither of whom were over 14 years of age went out hunting in the Cascades, about 20 miles east of the city. After hunting about in the timber for some time their dogs came across the track of a panther and giving pursuit soon compelled the animal to take to a tree. It was the first panther the young hunters had ever seen but nothing daunted Moffett fired at the fierce creature [illegible] than range. The shot took effect and brought the animal down. No sooner had the panther reached the ground than the dogs sprang on to it and a fierce conflict ensued. But the panther broke away from the dogs and scaled another tree. After climbing for another well directed shot brought it tumbling to the earth this time with both shoulders disabled. Even in that crippled condition the fierce animal made a desperate fight with the dogs, but was at length despatched by a knife in the hands of young Moffett. With considerable difficulty the slain animal was placed on the back of one of the young nimrods horses and conveyed to this city as a trophy. The panther measured six feet and one inch from tip to tip. The boys consider that they have accomplished a daring feat and we think they are entitled to much credit for the intrepidity displayed for such youthful hunters.

SOLD HIMSELF.—A party who has held the ribbons behind a pair of spirited horses his business being to carry packages and furniture in a rush to some of the parks was always on hand to carry [illegible] weak and weary hither and thither [illegible] bargain yesterday. He met a gentleman at Corbett's Stable who owned an old gray mare that was totally blind and expressed a desire to trade his own animal even offering a bonus of twenty five dollars. The owner of the blind nag did not care to trade and turned away with an air of indifference. Expressman was anxious and pressed the matter. Owner of the old gray mare acquiesced and took the twenty five dollars. Expressman went to examine his new property and then discovered his blunder. He called the former owner to task but the other considered it a trade and that was the end of it. The victim of his own rashness then voluntarily exchanged the animal and throwing the saddle on the blind mare he scampered off vowing that he would never trade again without examining the animal in view. He considers himself twenty five dollars [illegible].

STILL WORKING.—The work of blowing up the [illegible] brig is still progressing but with what measure of success remains yet to be seen. A number of blasts have been sent off however with little effect thus far. Only a few fragments of the wreck have been detached and floated to the surface. A diver protected with submarine armor has been below a number of times to determine what mischief has been wrought [illegible]. It is [illegible] very difficult to determine what effect the explosives have produced on the wreck [illegible]

From the well known abilities of the speaker we feel warranted in saying that it will be one of the most entertaining and instructive lectures which has yet been delivered in the city for some time. Mr Eliot has given the subject much study and is thoroughly posted. A number of astronomical views will be exhibited by the magic lantern at the close of the lecture. These views will be thrown against [illegible] the room [illegible] seats on the [illegible] of the hall will be preferable, in order to enable all to see. FROM THE EXPLOSION.—[illegible] explosions which have taken place in the attempt to destroy the old sunken brig has had considerable effect on buildings—especially those constructed [illegible]. A gentleman who occupies a building on Front street informs us that every time a blast is [illegible] the whole building [illegible] turbed [illegible] plastering [illegible] in the ceiling [illegible] sures have [illegible] between the wall and the ceiling. MILITARY NOTES.

We are in receipt of the following General Order No 1 from the Headquarters Department of Arizona under date of Prescott, July 5th 1874 which will best explain itself.

It is with a feeling of more than passing regret that the Department Commander in obedience to the order transferring it to another field of duty part with the Twenty third Infantry.

An association that commenced in the winter campaign of 1867 in the mountain passes of Idaho, a campaign of unusual hardship from the terrible cold and driving snows that characterized it continued in every part of the Pacific Slope where a hostile Indian has made war on civilization from British Columbia to Mexico and closing with the late campaign under the burning sun of Arizona necessarily need him that the regiment numbers among its officers and men as thorough and devoted soldiers as the service can boast.

Its long and ardent brilliant service under adverse circumstances in most inhospitable climates entitles a regiment to anything surely the Twenty third Infantry [illegible] of its commanders and the country.

That the officers and men may continue to deserve the good reputation is [illegible] that they have so well earned and that it [illegible] receive the full measure of recognition for their services is the earnest wish of the Department Commander.

FROM THE SEASIDE.

ASTORIA COMMERCIALLY AND [illegible]—THE WATERING PLACES—A CONVENIENT [illegible] OF ENJOYMENT.

ASTORIA July 24, 1874

The more Astoria is examined into by disinterested observers it will appear the more evident that it is admirably adapted for loading vessels of large tonnage at great economy of time reduced expense quick despatch and moderate rates of freight all of which will be so [illegible] of the reputation of the port the character of the merchants, the profits of the farmers and increase of production. Shippers will send their vessels where freights can be got most conveniently despatched with promptness charges moderate with honorable dealing [illegible] will all these objects be attained [illegible] shippers will for these reasons prefer sending their vessels to Astoria in preference to San Francisco. This will necessitate the shipping merchants of Portland and other leading places on the Willamette river to build branch warehouses at this place in which to store wheat oats wool and salmon for shipment to foreign and eastern ports. The work is fairly inaugurated. All the principal wharves are being enlarged with additional warehouses corresponding to meet the wants of the coming fall trade.

THE ASTORIA FARMING COMPANY

In which the Willamette Transportation Company have a large interest are extending their wharf 300 feet. By the 1st of October they will have 600 feet of wharfage and warehouse accommodation with twenty feet of water at low tide outside and inside the wharf from which large vessels can be loaded and sent to sea ten days after their arrival.

THE OREGON STEAMSHIP COMPANY

Contemplate building additional wharfage and warehouse accommodation to meet the wants of their increasing business.

CAPTAIN FLAVEL

Has been improving and extending his wharf and will most likely build a large warehouse soon.

R. C. KINNEY & SON OF SALEM

Have secured a water front on which to erect a large warehouse for storing wheat and flour for direct shipments to Europe, China and other ports. It will be ready for the fall trade.

THE COLUMBIA AND WILLAMETTE RIVER BARGE COMPANY

Just organized and incorporated at Astoria will have two barges ready by October that will convey at least 800 tons of wheat each. These barges will run from the head of navigation on the Willamette to Astoria. The two barges can bring as much wheat at one trip as will load a large vessel and for half the cost of the present rates. The barges will be 150 feet long, 34 feet beam, 8 feet depth of hold and will cost from $6000 to $7000 each. The tow age for the barges is already engaged but they are to be so constructed as to admit of the necessary machinery being introduced as will drive themselves when it is considered desirable to do so. The capital of the company is $20,000 in shares of $100 each. The incorporators are Col. Jos Teal, G. W. Warren, J. H. D. Gray, [illegible], D. K. Warren, S. D. Adair, [illegible] Slauster and S. N. Arrigoni.

THE ASTORIAN PROPERTY HOLDERS

Are pursuing a wise course in giving liberal grants of water frontage at very moderate rates for building wharves and warehouses. The intelligent and thoughtful Astorians see the tide of prosperity and progress rising in their favor and the generous course they are pursuing by encouraging improvements evidences that they are taking advantage of their opportunities. The changes in progress in the mode and place of loading large vessels will result to the benefit of all enterprising shippers the best interests of the State and especially to the advantage of the farmers of Oregon who are the most numerous industrious and valuable class in the community.

THE WATERING PLACES CONNECTED WITH ASTORIA

Are becoming more and more attractive every year. We have already referred in a former letter to Bakers Bay, [illegible], Oysterville and Shoalwater bay on the north side of the Columbia river.

CLATSOP

On the south side of the bay is deserving of special notice. It is twenty two miles from Astoria. The beautiful little steamer Kalama owned by Hughes & Hunter runs from Astoria to Skipanon seven miles twice a day. It makes the distance in forty minutes carries forty passengers and is quite safe. It starts at 6 A. M. and connects with the mail wagon at Skipanon for Clatsop and arrives at the Seaside House a distance of fifteen miles at 11 A. M. The steamer starts again on the same trip in the evening after the arrival of the Portland boat, and connects with the seaside stage at 7 P. M. and arrives at the hotel at 9 P. M. [illegible] arrive the evening at the [illegible] at Clatsop making the [illegible] 13 miles in fifteen hours. The seven miles by the steamer Kalama is very pleasant. The drive by the mail wagon [illegible] being over a sandy road [illegible] The [illegible] are hid from the view [illegible] twelve fifteen miles are the [illegible] after [illegible] on arriving.

THE SEASIDE HOTEL

This is one of the most complete and comfortable family hotels in the State. It was built and opened for visitors last summer. The dining and [illegible] the living [illegible] forming [illegible] grounds [illegible] for surf bathing [illegible] do Mr Holladay great credit [illegible] at [illegible] Mr [illegible] Dexter in catering to the comforts and enjoyments of his guests is not exceeded if equaled by any hotel keeper in the State. He is emphatically the right man in the right place. Besides the enjoyment and excitement of surf bathing, at high water walking, riding or driving on the ocean beach at low water there are facilities for boating, trout fishing, hunting and numerous games on the beautiful grounds encircling the hotel. There are a number of wild animals chained and kept for the amusement of visitors. There are no want of indoor and outdoor amusements to entertain every variety of taste from charming music in the comfortable parlor to hunting bears in the brush from the quiet game of croquet to the exciting plunge in the ocean surf from the skilled angler in his knickerbockers the trout in the gentle brook to the excited [illegible] a spirited horse [illegible] team of [illegible] of many children [illegible] and candidates for matrimony—the latter under the watchful care of wise mothers and [illegible] who have [illegible]

There are 117 persons stopping at the Seaside House [illegible] men [illegible] and children. It will [illegible] be crowded till October. The [illegible] Dexter will have [illegible] choice and fresh, and [illegible] plenty [illegible] hotel [illegible] sixty to a hundred [illegible] at [illegible] Astoria [illegible]

A young man named Leyerton got into a fracas at Weston last week, in which the constable went to arrest him. Leverton beat him over the head put spurs to his horse and made good his escape.

If there is one thing more than another that Polk county needs that one thing is good bridges. Nearly every bridge in the county is either in need of some slight repairs or is actually unsafe to travel over at all.

In Polk county the farmers are all busily engaged putting up their hay. The timothy crop is not very heavy but made up for by the wild oats of which nearly every farmer has an abundance and it is liked nearly as well as timothy. Hay is selling from $[illegible] per ton in the field. Grain is fast ripening this warm weather. Fall grain will be ready for the headers by the first week in August. All cereals give an appearance of a heavy yield, oats being especially heavy.

From a private letter received by Mr Hannah we learn that work is still progressing on the Summerville and Walla Walla Wagon Road. Mr Hale with a party of men from Weston are working on the western side of the mountains and will have that end completed and in good traveling condition nearly [illegible] A party of men from Summerville will complete this side of the mountain during the present week. They are digging up the stumps and trees and removing all obstructions in fact making every effort to secure a first class road. J M Fouquette just over the road bringing 1000 pounds with four horses says he got along finely and without any difficulty.

The Salem Statesman of last Sunday says: An extensive fire was noticed northeast of town yesterday morning, which caused considerable loss of property. Somebody we are informed, set fire to some underbrush in that vicinity which soon communicated to a wheat field belonging to David Shannon, destroying fifteen acres of fine wheat just ready for the reaper. He also lost 1,500 rails while other parties [illegible] lost $400. Two cows with their calves were burned up in the brush together with a number of swine. The loss is a severe one, and a penalty should be attached to setting fire to underbrush where personal property is endangered. The worst may not yet be known as other property may be [illegible].

The Umpqua Call thus describes the town of Oakland: Oakland at times, presents a charming and romantic life picture especially to a new comer. Hog farmers cultivate herds of swine in the street. The hogs are so tame and well acquainted that they walk into the shops and offices along the streets seeking what they may devour—something. Then thousands of dogs more or less can be seen by day and heard at night. Cats here are too numerous to mention [illegible] with the hogs and dogs the cats hold tea parties every night in the week. Fleas and other parasites are plentiful—they are necessary to keep the hogs, dogs and [illegible] company. A striking feature is there are no [illegible] in Oakland. The writer of this is well pleased with the [illegible] romantic village [illegible] like Rome on [illegible] hills nestled among the [illegible] of hills [illegible] Future prospects [illegible] the people [illegible] Business is lively—as a funeral procession. Grasshoppers are making sad havoc with the hay harvest in Montana. It is estimated that ranches yielding 300 tons last year will not yield ten tons this.

The first session of the Eastern Oregon and Washington Annual Conference of the M. E. Church begins at Walla Walla on Thursday of the present week.

Repairs are being vigorously prosecuted at the military post near Port Townsend, and vessels are busily engaged in the transportation of freight troops etc., hither from San Juan.

A young lady of Montana has recently carried off the first prize in the conservatory of music at one of the principal schools of the United States—St. Mary's Academy, Notre Dame.

Samples of sandstone which is obtained from the quarry near Port Townsend, were shipped for San Francisco on Friday for the inspection of the builders and capitalists of that city by request.

The judgment of the District Court, condemning Michael Harogan, of Vancouver to suffer death for the murder of Mr Vohwinkle has been affirmed by the Supreme Court of Washington Territory.

There are nine towns and 25,000 people in Cache valley the present terminus of the U. N. R. R. The company has fifty miles of iron at Franklin and will probably complete the road over to Snake river this year.

A little Indian girl captured by Gen. Crook in the Indian war in Idaho six years ago died at Boise City about a week ago. She was about 15 years of age, and had lived in the family of Cy. Jacobs since her capture, and was kindly treated but would never talk until about a week before her death.

The Bozeman Courier is credibly informed that rich river mines have been discovered on the Missouri opposite Nave's, and about eight miles from Radersburg. 25 cents to the pan have been obtained. The river prospects well from the Three Forks to Nave's, and the greatest excitement prevails in the settlements contiguous to the river.

The potato bug, which has been so destructive to crops in Colorado the past few years has made its appearance in the Yellowstone valley and destroyed the crops of several settlers. Should they get into the Gallatin valley this season between them and the grasshoppers, they would leave but a small share of this favorite esculent for the people.

The camp meeting held near the Milton Mills, on the Touchet by the Cumberland Presbyterians continued for two weeks closing on Sabbath before last. The attendance was good throughout the meetings and very large on the Sabbaths. The campholders fed and lodged gratuitously all who did not come prepared to take care of themselves and pasturage and feed was furnished for their horses. This is the custom of Cumberland campmeetings. The order of the people was never better in any part of the world.

Mr McNaught has just returned to Seattle from Washington City where he had been for the purpose of lobbying through Congress a bill authorizing certain counties to issue bonds to aid in the construction of the Seattle and Walla Walla railroad. The bill failed but Mr M. is confident of its passage on the re-assembling of Congress. Should the necessary authority be obtained from Congress the intention of the projectors of the enterprise is to bond Walla Walla county for $250,000, Seattle $100,000, Yakima county, $150,000 and King county $250,000.

The Sioux are up to their old tricks again. The Bozeman Courier learns that they made their appearance at the Crow Agency week before last and at Benson's stealing six horses and firing at a herder, and are reported still in the vicinity. They have been seen several times during the week. It would not surprise us if they got away with a large number of horses. Besides Story's herd of about 700 horses, there are various other smaller herds and we know of nothing to prevent a good sized party of Indians just helping themselves. The Crows are not at the Agency and the raiding party can act with impunity.

KIDNAPPING

HEARTLESS ABDUCTION OF A CHILD—A RANSOM OF $20,000 ASKED—NOTHING YET KNOWN OF THE IDENTITY OR WHEREABOUTS OF THE BLACKMAILERS

PHILADELPHIA, July 12, 1874

On July 1 two little boys were playing in Washington lane at Germantown; two men approached them in a carriage and invited them out to ride. No one save the children and the men was near at the time. For several days previous these same two men had approached the boys in different ways and having, during these conversations, given them candies, toys, etc., the little ones expected them before they arrived on the day mentioned above and so readily consented to get into the carriage. After having driven for some distance the oldest one of the two little ones was asked to get out of the carriage and buy a few packages of fire crackers. Boy like, he most willingly complied. No sooner had he disappeared in the store than the two men lashed the horse and made away with the little four year old, whose name is and who has never since been seen by those who knew him.

The father, after searching everywhere in the neighborhood, came to the police office, where, upon his arrival, your correspondent learned the above. The police, under the direction of Captain Heins, made the most scrutinizing search everywhere. They continued their operations unceasingly day and night, and were determined to leave no stone unturned that would restore the lost one and punish its persecutors. All in vain. They labored to no purpose for three days and for three nights. There was no clew. After this the following advertisement appeared in all the newspapers:

$300 REWARD WILL BE PAID TO THE PERson returning to No. 5 North Sixth street, a SMALL BOY 4 years old having long curly flaxen hair, hazel eyes, clear light skin and round face, dressed in a brown linen suit with short skirt, broad-brimmed straw hat, and laced shoes. The child was lost from Germantown on Wednesday afternoon, 1st inst., between 4 and 5 o'clock.

This advertisement, too, met with no response, and on Monday, July 6, another was inserted in the Public Ledger. The next morning, in the "personal column" of this same journal appeared the following:

ROSS—WE BE READY TO NEGOTIATE.

On the same day the father, Mr. Ross, received an anonymous letter through the post office, in which it was stated that little Charlie would be returned for $20,000. It also went on to say that the boy was in good hands; that the treatment given him was careful; that it had cost the parties a good deal of money to get him, and that they could not think of returning him for less than $20,000.

The father returned the following answer through the Ledger personals, thus:

ROSS WILL COME TO TERMS TO THE EXTENT of his ability.

Another anonymous letter at once was received by Mr. Ross, stating that the parties who had the child would not part with it for a smaller sum than the one already named. Now mark how a father's love rises supreme above everything! He had not in his possession the amount necessary to regain his dear one, but he answered the villains through the personals thus:

ROSS IS WILLING. HAVE NOT GOT IT. AM doing my best to raise it.

Thus the matter stands. Detectives have watched the Ledger building and the post office day and night, but so carefully do the kidnappers work that no clew whatever seems to have been obtained to their identity or their whereabouts. The child has now been absent twelve days, and it is doubtful whether, during this time, any of the members of the household to which it belonged have had an hour of unbroken rest.

THE CIRCUMSTANCES OF THE CASE

are somewhat remarkable throughout. For five days previous to July 1—the day upon which the child was stolen—the same men were seen around the neighborhood and each day approached the two children and conversed with them. It is presumed that they would have made off with the youngest little Charlie Ross several days before the 1st instant, but at each time there chanced to be some one passing along the lane. During a conversation with the father I asked him whether he had any enemies who owed him a grudge, and who would be likely to take revenge in such a rare way. The father replied that he was unaware that there was any one in the world who entertained any bitterness against him. The name of the father is Mr. Christian K. Ross, of the firm of Ross, Shott & Co., wholesale dry-goods dealers on Market street. The house was unfortunate during the late panic, and hence Mr. Ross is unable to pay at once the sum demanded by the blackmailers. It is hoped that he will not be obliged to do so, but that it will be the kidnappers who will be obliged to pay the penalty worthy of their inhumanity.

THE LETTERS OF THE BLACKMAILERS

11 P. M.—Since writing the above your correspondent has gained a more direct idea of the nature of the letters which the kidnappers have sent to the disconsolate father. More fiendish, cruel or inhuman epistles human hand never penned. One of them reads similar to this:

"We know you are not worth much money, but we are aware that you have rich friends of whom you can borrow. If you love money better than your child its blood be on your own head."

Another letter reads to this effect:

"Any attempt to ascertain the child's hiding place will result in its entire annihilation. We will 'turn the child up' on our own terms."

Meaning that in case the money is not forthcoming they will kill the infant.

No one can read the letters without feeling his blood boil. Four letters in all have been received, and each of them is cool and cruel.

"We know our business," says one of the letters, "and we are going to fight it out."—Cor. N. Y. Herald.

PHILADELPHIA, July 13.—There are no further developments on the abduction case. The unfortunate father, in a Ledger personal this morning, signifies that he has got the amount of money required for the restoration of his son, and is willingly to pay it. The abductors are believed to be a gang of English professionals accustomed to this nefarious business.

AN INTERESTING DECISION

A Chicago dispatch of July 21st says: A decision involving very important principles was rendered in the United States Circuit Court this afternoon, by Judge Drummond, in the case of the Atlantic and Pacific Telegraph Company against the Chicago and Rock Island Railroad Company. The Telegraph Company, accepting the Act of Congress of July 24, 1866, entitled, "An Act to aid in erecting telegraph lines, and to secure to the Government the use of the same for postal, military and other purposes," commenced the construction of a line along the route of the Rock Island Railroad between Chicago and Omaha. The Railroad Company ordered the Telegraph Company to desist, after a few poles were set; thereupon the Telegraph Company applied to the United States Circuit Court for an injunction restraining the Railroad Company from interfering with the construction of their line, claiming that as the Rock Island road carried the United States mail it was a post road, and came under the provisions of the Act of 1866. The Railroad Company was represented by Messrs. Williams & Thompson, attorneys. It was claimed that the Act in question applied only to roads traversing the public domain and that the right of way, which had been condemned and purchased by the Railroad Company under State laws, was the property of the Railroad Company, and under the fifth amendment to the Constitution could not be taken without compensation. Judge Drummond, in his decision, held that the Act of July 24th, 1866, limits the powers therein conferred to such military and post routes of the United States as are owned or exclusively controlled by the Government, and does not include railroads which have been designated as post routes by other acts of Congress, over which Government exercises no control, but simply contracts for the carrying of mails of the United States; that neither under the Act of 1866 nor under any other Act can Congress take or authorize the taking of private property of a Railroad Corporation, for the purpose of erecting and maintaining a telegraph line, without compensation for the franchise so sought to be granted.

The Denver, Col., News says that about 200 persons have signed an agreement to re-organize the Yellowstone expedition to the Powder river country about the 1st of September.

The gold premium has been lower to-day than it has been for some months, and it is believed by many that the new loan movement by Secretary Bristow and the currency act will bring the premium down during the next three months much lower than it has been for years. It has been demonstrated that the effect of the operation of the new currency law thus far has been contraction. A much larger amount of national bank circulation has been surrendered than has been issued to new applicants. The amount surrendered is $1,300,000, and the amount of broken bank circulation outstanding is over $1,000,000. There is therefore a fund of nearly $3,000,000 which can be used to furnish new banks in the West and South before any of the circulation of Eastern banks is withdrawn for redistribution under the new law. The amount of circulation applied for by new banks is $4,000,000, but little over one half of the sum which could now be supplied to the West and South without disturbing the Eastern circulation. It is not believed that of these $4,000,000 applied for more than $1,000,000 will be issued during the next three months, for the reason that the banks invariably exhibit bonds for only $50,000 of circulation, however much in excess of this sum their aggregate circulation is designed to be. This is possible under the new law, while the old law required a deposit equal to at least one third the aggregate circulation. There still remains most of the last $3,000,000 of the original $354,000,000 which have been assigned, but not yet issued. The banks to which this sum is allotted are very slow in taking it out. Many of them are awaiting a depreciation in bonds, while others are uncertain about continuing their organization. It is suggested that after all the outcry for more circulation it may happen that Congress will convene before all of even these last $3,000,000 are issued.

The Tonnage Supply.

During the week ending July 23d there were sixteen engagements at San Francisco of vessels for the European grain trade at rates varying from £3 17½ to £4. At the date named there were fifteen vessels disengaged in that port, with a capacity of 12,559 tons. Of the following named vessels reported on the way or under charter for this port, we are informed that a number have the option of San Francisco. The names of most of them have been published from time to time. Their aggregate tonnage is 27,796 tons register, while their carrying capacity is perhaps 25 per cent. greater. Our evening contemporary publishes the list as follows: "Knight of Wonder, 856; Oneta, 1,047; Zedith, 768; Heros, 564; Choral, 1,111; Moonbeam, 692; Carnbom, 723; Glenlyon, 645; Screen Berner, 510; Valparaiso, 770; Gloria, 670; Huntley Castle, 623; Roslin Castle, 614; Brighton Castle, 423; Ole Smith Plong, 700; Orissa, 1,159; Murilla, 643; Ramoline, 384; Corsica, 791; Rosebeath, 691; Grundloren, 824; Clara, 523; St. Patrick, 507; St. Nicholas, 890; R. P. Miscellaneous.

A San Francisco exchange of last Thursday says: The decline of 6d in the English wheat market since the 16th inst. has had no perceptible effect in values here, though buyers are perhaps more cautious and less anxious to contract for lots for future delivery unless at a marked reduction on present asking rates. Exporters say they can get all the wheat they want at $1 60, though the quantity immediately available is not large. It is a curious coincidence that the price of average California wheat in Liverpool to-day is exactly the same as it was a year ago.

The Hudson Bay Co.'s ship Brierly Hill left London for Victoria on the 13th of June. We have heard that she will return to Europe via Portland under a charter.

An Olympia paper says: "We are informed by a farmer of Thurston county who always raises a large crop of onions, that the crop this year is a failure. The wet weather, early in the season, forced their growth rapidly, making them very tender. Since the hot weather began they have dried up so that one would now run through them. It is supposed to be caused by the frosts and sun. They are seldom injured this way in United States, but it is said to be a common occurrence in Great Britain. We are told that every field in the vicinity is killed."

A Polk county paper says: "The crops of this county are generally good. The acreage of wheat is perhaps one third more than last year. The oats crop is as good, or perhaps better than last year. The yield of hay will be smaller than last year, and the wheat crop this year will be about equal to that of last year; the yield per acre will perhaps fall below last year's crop, but the extra acreage will make up the deficiency, and the present crop may be larger than last year's."

A Walla Walla paper says: "We are sorry to learn that in many parts of the country the wheat crop—especially that sown in the spring—will prove almost a failure. Even the fall wheat will scarcely average 50 per cent. as compared to that of last year. The early spring drouth is doubtless the cause."

Shipping Intelligence.

Home Produce Market.

WHEAT—To an outsider it would appear that very little is being done in regard to the new crop, but though things appear so quiet on the surface, we are informed that some large contracts have been made for fall delivery on terms reserved. The present condition of the market is some better than it was one week ago, but whether the improvement is permanent is a matter of doubt. Quotations are almost nominal at present, at $1 45@1 50 ₩ cental.

FLOUR—The supplies on hand now will carry dealers through the fortnight or so that will intervene before the new crop of wheat comes in. Quotable at $5 60 ₩ bbl for best brands of standard extras; good outside brands $4 50@5; superfine $4.

Oats—This cereal has declined 2½c ₩ bushel to 70c for inferior. A further decline is anticipated owing to the heavy crop soon to be harvested.

BARLEY—There is a good demand for choice lots for brewing purposes, and such readily command $1 50 ₩ 100 lbs, including sacks. Common feed quotable at $1 40@1 45.

FEED—Stocks on hand supply the present inquiry, which is limited at jobbers paying rates: bran $15 ₩ ton, shorts $18, chop middlings, etc., $30.

HAY—The new crop comes forward freely and prices tend downward, the quotations for baled timothy being $15@18 ₩ ton, ditto loose $8 50@9 50. Wild is scarcely saleable at $6 50@7.

POTATOES—The market is full of receipts of new crops, good varieties and quotable at 40@45 cents ₩ bushel. The report that in some sections of Washington Territory the crop had suffered from blight causes some uneasiness, but we are informed that its effects are not general, but our information only claimed to apply to some fields on the Sound and on the lower Columbia. The latter was well understood, the latter in the season, and since that time the crop is likely to have partially recovered.

ONIONS—The supply on hand at present is not large, and quotations are firm at 2@2½ cts ₩ lb, including sacks.

FRUITS—The demand is well supplied at current rates, and shipments not resulting in encouragement, prices are rather weaker. We quote apples at 75c@$1 ₩ box; [illegible].

BACON—The San Francisco market for Oregon has declined to 16@18c for sides, and ours cannot be maintained [illegible]. Shoulders and Hams are unchanged, the supply of all kinds being rather in excess of that below the demand.

LARD—The receipts are not heavy and we quote good fresh Oregon in tins firm at 14 cts ₩ lb; in kegs 13 cts.

BUTTER—The same old difficulty exists in giving exact quotations of this article. A good quality of fresh roll will sell readily at 20@25c; Paris print 25@30c; on contract, common ranges from 12½ to 15c, while some that others would hardly countenance 12½c.

CHEESE—The receipts of Oregon made are light and importations supply in large part the local demand. We quote at 15@18 cts ₩ lb according to brand.

CHICKENS—The demand is not extensive, but choice lots of grown are worth $4@4 50 ₩ dozen; Spring $2 50@3.

EGGS—The receipts have declined in volume materially during the past few days, leaving the local trade a little short of the accustomed supplies, and though the demand for shipping does not justify it, the temporary wants of our home market have raised the price to 25 cents per dozen to-day, and the prospect is that jobbing rates to-morrow will be 2 cents higher.

HIDES—Choice dry Hides culled sell readily at 14@16c ₩ lb; green 6@7c. The receipts are large, especially from Eastern Oregon.

FRESH MEATS—The demand at this season shows less activity, while arrivals are better; prices remain without change.

WOOL—The receipts continue to be quite heavy but will materially diminish within a few days, as most of the clip is out of first hands. While we believe that stricter attention to some suggestions as to sorting and packing would have proved profitable to wool-growers, we congratulate them on the success which has attended the season's business. It is estimated that the receipts at this point so far have reached over 2,000,000 pounds, and that the total for export will reach 2,500,000 pounds. Choice Willamette valley Wool is quotable at 25@26c ₩ lb; Eastern Oregon and Walla Walla 22@23c.
